Julia Florista Red

Rated 93, Carolyn Evans Hammond, The Star, May 25, 2018

"Julia Florista, a bohemian woman who lived in Portugal at the turn of the century, sold flowers by day and sang Fado music by night in the taverns of Lisbon. And like the Fado music she sang, this red is humble, soulful and distinctly Portuguese. It's a smooth, impeccably balanced blend of Indigenous grape varieties that swirls with flavours of poached plum and mixed berries laced with crushed violet, warm earth and cool talc. Dry, but not too dry, medium-bodied and dangerously easy to drink, every sip transports you to Lisbon."
